

Nashville Union.

For Freedom and Nationality!

S. C. MERCER, Editor.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, APRIL 16, 1862.

We have been absent necessarily from our post for several days. Our readers have been gainers rather than losers as our duties have been faithfully performed by a gentleman who is one of the Union "Sharp-shooters," whose gun never flashes or misses its mark.

Albert Sydney Johnson.

Among the most honored and admired of the officers of the American army, prior to the rebellion, was ALBERT SYDNEY JOHNSON, then Brevet Brigadier General and Colonel of the Second Cavalry. For sometime he had been in service in the Territory of Utah, and none of his brother officers had finer prospects than he. But he tasted of the fatal sorcery of Secession, and without even the poor excuse of going with his State, on the 3d of May last, resigned his commission and took service under JEFF DAVIS. Thousands regretted not only the loss of a good officer, but this dishonorable conduct in becoming a traitor. Soon after his return he was arrayed against Gen. ROBERT ANDERSON, one at Bowling Green and the other at Louisville, in the State of which both were natives. His history from that time, until his death in the battle of Pittsburg, on the 6th, is well known in this community. They witnessed his retreat from Bowling Green to Alabama, and followed him with execrations. Mr. ATKINS, a member of the rebel Congress, from this State, is reported to have said in his place that a request for his removal had been signed by all the members from Tennessee, except Mr. SWAN. Some gentlemen who met the intelligence of his death, on their way to this city, informed us that the Secessionists along the road exulted in his fate; so low had he fallen in the estimate of the people whom he had forfeited his honor to serve. Verily they who serve the devil have an unthankful master.

There are a lot of Secessionists about this city who have heretofore exerted themselves, and used their means, to procure others to join the rebel army. These men under the promises that houses would be furnished their families, and their wants looked after, have gone into the army; some have sickened and died, others fell at Donaldson and other places, while a large proportion of them are to-day within the forts of the Government, as prisoners of war, and their only prospect of ever again seeing their families depends upon the mercy of the Government against which they took up arms. And yet these Secessionists are to-day walking the streets of this city, surrounded by luxury, while the wives and children of these deluded men are begging through the streets, without the courage to go to the field themselves and fight against the "Hessians and hordes of tyranny which Lincoln was pouring upon the South for its subjugation," have remained at home, discussed the efficiency of pikes, saw the Federal troops enter the city, and now meet in back rooms and secret places and pour out their affected vituperations upon the "bluecoats" and indulge themselves in the delusive hope, that the unfortunate army of the Confederacy will return and deliver them. Such courage, such chivalry, brave in words, but weak action, and great food! such retributions as await them.

We firmly believe that kindness and forgiveness should be shown by the loyal people to the deceived mass of disloyalists who have been led astray by wicked and crafty leaders. We always intend to draw a broad line of distinction between the devil who tempted and Eve who yielded to the wiles of the devil. We look with love and tenderness upon the victims of the fraud, but the head of the serpent must and shall be crushed. It seems to us the climax of impudence for such men as BUCKNER, BRECKINRIDGE, Gov. HARRIS, &c., to protest against any severe measures on the part of our Government, or to deprecate the horrors of bloodshed. Such hypocritical language reminds one of a certain French fellow who having murdered his parents under circumstances of great barbarity, was tried and convicted. On being asked by the Judge if he had any reason to give why sentence of death should not be passed on him, he replied, "May it please your Honor, I think the Court ought to be merciful to a poor orphan!"

Guerrilla War.

Under this head the National Intelligencer of the 10th has some very well timed remarks, which we commend to the thoughtful consideration of the people of Tennessee. Shall we have our whole State ravaged like Missouri, Southern Kentucky and Eastern Tennessee, by roving bands of freebooters, plundering on their own account, in the name of Southern rights and the Southern Confederacy. The value of the negroes alone stolen by these precious scoundrels, and run off further South, cannot be less than a million of dollars. We are not ignorant of the efforts to organize such gangs of marauders in this region. Morgan's exploits, not in open day and against men armed and prepared to meet him on equal terms, and in a fair fight, but under cover of night, sneaking like a thief, disguised like a spy, against the unarmed and defenceless, are proclaimed as the very ideal of high soldierly bearing. A miscreant by the name of Champ Ferguson, who, at the breaking out of this rebellion, we are informed, stood charged with murder, is murdering and pillaging the people of Overton and Fentress counties, and of the adjoining parts of Kentucky. We also hear of two men by the name of Bledsoe and McHenry similarly engaged. These latter worthies are said, however, sometimes to attack soldiers, when they can steal upon them at night and surprise them in their camp in numbers not more than one-third their own, with what results possibly Messrs. A. J. Marchbanks and Andrew Ewing could tell.

Another of this brigand fraternity, whose plundering operations have been reported to us, is Croff, Vaughn, of East Tennessee. His latest reported exploits is a raid into the small mountain county of Scott, burning the houses, turning women and children out of doors, destroying their property, and driving off their cattle into the mountains of North Carolina. A few days ago, a water tank and some other property on the railroad between here and the Kentucky line, was destroyed. Several persons in the immediate neighborhood, we learn, were seized and held responsible for the destruction. It will be remembered that Governor JOHNSON in his speech at the Capitol the other day, announced that such guerrilla operations would be certainly and surely punished, not only in the persons of the parties concerned, but in the property of their sympathizers, aiders and abettors. Those who are tempted to engage in these piratical adventures had better understand that the laws will be enforced, and the enforcement of the laws upon such offenders mean something. It is not war, it is crime, and must be punished as such. Punish the perpetrators, and hold parties in the vicinity responsible for the amount of the damages they inflict.

A prominent citizen of Sumner county has written a letter claiming credit for preventing Morgan from burning the depot at Gallatin a few weeks ago, thus showing that he knew of his operations there, and might have prevented them. Let him make good the loss.

As the signs of the time portend more and more clearly an early suppression of the military operations of the insurgents, so far as they are capable of being conducted on a large scale, renewed interest, we observe, is given to a discussion of the question whether the war for the Union is likely to degenerate into a guerrilla strife, fed by the combined spirit of brigandage and partisan ferocity. We think there is little reason to apprehend any such resort on the part of the armed edition when its forces shall have been dispersed, as predatory warfare is alien to the habits of the whole American people, and, in practice, is always found to be odious, because injurious to those in whose behalf it professes to be waged, as it is soon discovered that men who engage in this species of petty war are but a slight remove from condottieri, who are ever ready to prey equally on friend and foe. On this point our contemporary, the New York World, remarks as follows:

"Guerrilla warfare never yet effected the deliverance of any people. Without doubt it is a useful adjunct to regular warfare, but when it becomes the sole way of life, it is a failure, and always must, so long as human nature remains unchanged. The reason is plain. In regular warfare, discipline is essential, and discipline is not easily brought to a regular army. When any man is permitted to make war in his own way, the worst characters are ever the foremost to engage in it—those who seek plunder and revel in violence, rather than those who are motivated by patriotic purpose. Battles of unbridled ferocity are likely to end, and no distinction is made between the property of friend and foe. The consequence soon is that the whole population come to regard them as common enemies, and will welcome any means of putting them down. When Spain was invaded by Napoleon there were, at one time, no less than fifty thousand of these irregular soldiers, engaged against the French. Their indiscriminate violence upon Spaniards and Frenchmen alike was such that, as Napoleon wrote, it may be assumed as a truth that if the English army had abandoned the contest one of the surest means by which the French could have gained the good will of the nation would have been the extermination of the partidas. We have already seen the expedient work in just this manner in Missouri. While the regularly enlisted troops under Price were, in general, kept closely to the rules of war, the guerrilla bands, with which at one time a large portion of the State swarmed, acted without restraint in their depredations, and, in consequence, making victims of rebels and loyalists alike. It was not until the vigorous measures of Major General Halleck against the guerrillas, and they have now nearly, if not quite, disappeared from the State. This guerrilla warfare, so far from being an injury, would believe prove an actual benefit to the Union cause. It would drive the great body of the population to seek and welcome the protection of the Federal Government, and bring home, quicker than any thing else, the sense that the patriotic duty and personal interests are identical."

Look at the Facts.

Friend, if you have ever been in the habit of talking, in the slang parlance of the times, of the war of the North against the South—of the subjugation of the South by the North—of Northern conquest and Southern submission—and have suffered these idle catchwords of wily and reckless office-hunters and demagogues, to involve you in the rebellion now being made against the Union of the States, we beg you, as a rational being, as one capable of looking at facts and making just conclusions, to toss aside mere frothy phrases, and see whether the facts and history of the case, will make you blameless before Heaven, for aiding the fearful convulsion and revolution, now upheaving thirty millions of people. Look at facts. Look at the fruits of the old government and of the revolution. From the administration of Washington down to that of Buchanan, what was the general condition of the country? Were we prosperous or not? Were we happy or not? Did people in the old world regard and seek ours as a desirable land, or did they shun it as the abode of misery? What said our orators, from Maine to the Gulf States, on the recurrence of our national holidays, as to the prosperity, growth and grandeur of this country? What said newspapers of all sects and parties, political and religious, of our educational, social, commercial, individual and national progress? Were we more or less blessed in all things than the people of Europe? Did our people emigrate to foreign countries, and seek their fortunes under other auspices and protection, or did we say that we would not exchange our condition, as a people, for that of any other on the globe? How did you think and feel on all these points? What were the facts connected with these questions? We leave the reply to your own judgments and consciences.

Now review the state of the land since the flag of rebellion was raised in the revolted section. What is the condition of things over the Southern Confederacy? Does agriculture flourish or is it neglected? Are the people buoyant and happy or are they gloomy and miserable? Have they lost any privileges which they enjoyed before? Are their blessings increased and their burdens diminished? Are life and property more or less secure than they were before? Have you more or less confidence in the stability of the government at Richmond, than you had under the one which you once supported? When you look upon your wives and children, is the solicitude you feel for their future fate lightened by hope, or is it darkened by a cloud of despair? We leave the reply to your own conscience and judgment as before.

Oh husband and father, man and brother, by your love to your wives, by your God, by your regard for your own offspring, answer these questions candidly and without passion. Terrible will be the remorse and punishment of him who, influenced by the wild frenzy of the times, and blinded with rage, refuses to answer them aright.

Com. Rollins.

It has not yet been stated, we believe, that Com. Rollins, of "Iron" notoriety, was captured in the general rout at Island No. Ten; but such is the fact. He is now a prisoner. The Commodore made a present of a handsome squirrel gun to Major Speed Butler, General Pope's Adjutant-General, thinking, no doubt, that for some time to come at least, he would have no use for such a weapon. He may be expected here in a day or two.—St. Louis Republican.

Secesh Charity Begins at Home and Ends at the same Place.

HOW IT BEGINS.

About a year ago the following generous and patriotic offers appeared in some of the journals of this city:

Dr. ROBERT MARTIN requests us to say to the people that, being a little too old to volunteer for active service, he proposes to give his professional services to the families of those who do go, gratuitously during their absence.

The teachers in the public schools, in view of the heavy demands that will necessarily be made upon the city in the present crisis, have with a liberality worthy of all commendation, proposed to devote their services to the schools during the month of June free of charge.

Attention Germans.

I will give medical attention free to the families of the members of the Nashville Rifle Company during the time they are in the service of the South. Also to the families of members of other Volunteer companies in the service.

To the Bureau of Military Supplies.

We have over ten thousand pounds of lead on hand, which the Davidson county Military Companies can have for bullets, by leaving their moulds at our place, free of charge.

A Noble and Patriotic Example.

We have the gratification of publishing a correspondence between Byrd Douglas, of this city, and his Excellency, Governor Harris, which illustrates the patriotic devotion of one of our worthy citizens in the cause of Tennessee, that will enroll his name among the most patriotic of our age. It will be seen that Mr. Douglas has authorized the Governor to draw his draft for thousands of dollars to aid him in placing Tennessee in a state of defence. This patriotic example is worthy of imitation by other wealthy citizens, and we doubt not that many will come forward with their contributions, as the Legislature has failed to provide for the defence of the State. Mr. Douglas will be remembered as the gentleman who, last winter, presented the Governor of South Carolina with one thousand dollars for the same purpose.

CORRESPONDENCE.

NASHVILLE, April 18th, 1861.

To His Excellency, ISHAM G. HARRIS, Governor of Tennessee.

Sir: I hold myself in readiness to honor your draft on me for thousands of dollars to aid you in placing Tennessee in a state of defence.

I doubt not that there are many others quite as able, and more patriotic than myself, who will come to the rescue of our State in its perilous position.

I am most respectfully your obedient servant,

BYRD DOUGLAS.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,

Nashville, Tenn., April 18, 1861.

Mr. BYRD DOUGLAS:

DEAR SIR: I am gratified with the loyalty and patriotism manifested in your favor of today, tendering money to aid, in placing Tennessee in a state of defence. It is such assurance of devotion, on the part of her sons that emboldens our State, and will make her future, as the past has been glorious and heroic. It may be that, in my responsibilities as Chief Executive officer of the State, I will have to take advantage of your generous offer. When that emergency shall arise, I doubt not, others of your fellow-citizens will come to the rescue of our State in its present perilous condition.

I am respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

ISHAM G. HARRIS.

Could anything be more liberal or munificent? Thousands of dollars. Principally benefactor! Now let us see

HOW IT ENDS.

Something more than two weeks ago Gov. Johnson published the following notice:

Tennessee Prisoners in St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., March 19, 1862.

HON. ANDREW JOHNSON, Brevet General and Military Governor, Nashville, Tenn.

DEAR SIR: There are daily discharged from our hospitals, citizens of Tennessee, formerly belonging to the rebel army, who have become convalescent and have taken the oath of allegiance to the U. S. Government. They are in our streets without the means of living, or of returning to their homes. The Commanding General can render them no assistance; it is not within the province of this commission, nor are our means adequate to the object; and private generosity has been so long and so extensively taxed that it ought not to be relied on.

Can you State furnish transportation and subsistence for them promptly to return home?

Very respectfully, for Western Sanitary Com'n.

E. R. HAZARD, Jr.

Sec'y. pro tem.

In view of the foregoing statement, I feel called upon to appeal, not only to the charitable, but especially to those who have been instrumental in reducing their misguided fellow-citizens to this sad degree of suffering, and who have been co-laborers in the unholy work in which they were engaged, to come forward and contribute to their relief.

Any money so contributed and deposited with the Secretary of State will be promptly applied to that purpose.

ANDREW JOHNSON.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE,

Nashville, March 29, 1862.

Now, how much do you suppose these gentlemen have contributed for these poor unfortunate discharged soldiers? Nay, how much do you suppose has been contributed by all Nashville Secesh? Not a SINGLE DOLLAR. Shame, shame upon such hollow-hearted pretenders to liberality. Matthew VI: 2.

Humphrey Marshall, an exceedingly unpopular, mean man, hate him, and even ordinary chairs and benches ought to be his.

EAST TENNESSEE.

Nothing has more fully displayed the venomous spirit of Secession, than their treatment of the Union people of East Tennessee. We republished yesterday an advertisement of Col. McNAMIN and Capt. HARRIS for blood-hounds to turn loose upon them. We give to-day two preambles and resolutions, found in the Legislative Halls since the departure of the law-givers. The first is Senate Resolution No. 23, introduced by Gen. JAMES T. LANE, of Athens, the distinguished Senator from McMinn, Monroe, Meigs and Polk. We publish it with a tender regard to its original orthography and phraseology, so as to lose nothing of its heavenly spirit.

"WHEREAS, certain citizens of the State of Tennessee having voluntarily left the State of Tennessee with evil and treasonable designs, and with the intent to thwart and cripple the best interests of our commonwealth, and with the avowed purpose of defeating the achievement and recognition of the independence of the Confederate States, and by their conduct both in and out of the camps of the enemy, as well as also by their public speeches, are misrepresenting the true feelings of the people of Tennessee; and by unmitigated falsehoods are making false impressions upon the minds of the people of Kentucky and elsewhere; and that the appropriation by the Congress of the United States of two millions of dollars obtained at the instance of Andrew Johnson alone, for the purpose of inaugurating civil war, and keeping up dissensions among our citizens, be it therefore Resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Tennessee, That the conduct and treasonable movements of Andrew Johnson, Horace Maynard, Emerson Etheridge, and such others of our public men as have expatriated themselves from our State, are regarded as alien enemies of our people; and the infamy and turpitude of whose offences win the sovereign contempt and perfect indignation of all good and loyal citizens, as well as also as the just punishment of the law in such cases made and provided."

The second is of the same sort, slightly modified. We regret not being able to give the name of the generous mover. If he will furnish us with it, we will cheerfully publish it. Both he and Gen. LANE would win distinction in the "Blood-hound" region.

"WHEREAS, a wish to divide the State was made known to the last Legislature, by a portion of the citizens of East Tennessee; and WHEREAS, some of our people have heretofore expressed a determination to adhere to the government of the United States, and have claimed Federal protection in our present revolution, and some have left the State to aid in overturning the Confederate States, among whom are Andrew Johnson, Horace Maynard, E. Etheridge and others; therefore

1st. Resolved, That it is the sense of the General Assembly, reflecting the will of the people, that the State offering its aid for defence, shall remain firm in its geographical integrity and in its loyalty to the Government of the Confederate States.

2d. That the General Assembly condemns the conduct of the persons aforesaid, whether they be in the councils or camps of our enemies; and Andrew Johnson, Horace Maynard and Emerson Etheridge especially, are proclaimed as open enemies to the State."
